How scholarship decisions are made?

When making scholarship decisions, the TIAS admissions board reviews all application materials submitted by candidates and assesses each candidate's overall qualities: the academic profile, the strength of the overall admissions application, the quality of your admissions interview, and employability. Like our admissions decisions, all scholarship decisions are made by the admissions board using a comprehensive approach that takes into account a variety of personal criteria, including educational achievement; life experiences; personal interests; location of residence; student's goals and background, and GMAT, GRE or TIAS Capacity Test (TCT) score. Please remember that a high GMAT, GRE, or TCT test score does not guarantee admission, just as a low score doesn't preclude admission. We accept students with lower test scores if we believe this can be offset by stronger areas in one's profile. Since we are such a very diverse school, we are keen to see whether you have worked, lived, studied abroad, or worked for an international company. So while a solid test score is important, it is not necessarily a deal breaker.
